23rd International Forgemasters Meeting

- The 23rd International Forgemasters Meeting will be held by Confederation of Chinese Metalforming Industry from 19 to 24, September, 2027 in Chengdu, P. R. China.
- Chengdu, the capital of Sichuan Province, in the west of Sichuan Basin, is the economic central city in southwest part of China. Chengdu is an important national high-tech industry and an important global electronic and information industry base, it is a commercial logistics center and integrated transportation hub.
- Chengdu is a famous historical and cultural city in China. It is the birthplace of ancient Shu civilization and one of the ten ancient capitals in China. The engraving printing was invented in Chengdu, and it was first used in the world. The world's first paper currency—Jiaozi also was employed in Chengdu. There are many historical sites such as Jinsha Ruins, Dujiangyan, Wuhou Temple and Dufu Caotang in Chengdu and it is one of the best tourism cities of China.
- Chengdu is located in the humid subtropical region, with complex topography, diverse natural ecological environment and abundant biological resources. There are rare animals under state protection include giant pandas, small pandas, golden monkeys, budorcas taxicolor, etc. The city has established the research bases for the conservation of rare and endangered wildlife such as giant pandas.

The Theme

The Forge Will Go On

The global open-die forging industry is at a critical stage of transformation, marked by digital transformation, greening and decarbonization, and surging demand for high-end equipment. Intelligent manufacturing and virtual simulation are redefining modern production. In fields such as wind power, nuclear, and aerospace, requirements for high performance and high precision of heavy forgings continue to rise, driving steady expansion of the global market. At the same time, the industry faces common challenges including the shortage of skilled technical personnel, supply chain restructuring, and the upgrading of green manufacturing standards.

The 21st International Forgemasters Meeting (IFM 2020) was rescheduled due to the pandemic. The 23rd IFM will be held in Chengdu in 2027. As the most authoritative top-level event in the global open-die forging industry, held once every three years, it will bring together leading enterprises, technical experts and industry leaders from Europe, Asia and a wide range of countries worldwide. Participants will discuss cutting-edge technologies, share industrial insights and explore cooperation opportunities. It serves as a key platform to keep pace with the global evolution of open-die forging development, connect high-end global resources, and drive technological innovation and market breakthroughs.

We sincerely invite distinguished experts, outstanding professionals and leading enterprise executives in the field of open-die forging from around the world to gather in Chengdu, and jointly advance the global open-die forging industry toward a future of higher quality, smarter development and greater sustainability.

Paper Call

We sincerely invite global forging industry professionals, technical experts, researchers, and scholars to contribute papers and exchange cutting-edge insights.

The topics are as:

- Forgings & Heavy Forgings Industry
- Steel Refining, Casting & Remelting for the Forging Industry
- Superalloys, Titanium, Aluminum & New Advanced Forging Materials
- Facilities & Equipment for Forging & Heat Treatment
- Evolution of Forgings for Industrial Applications (Energy, Metallurgy, Petrochemical, Aerospace and Defense, Heavy Machinery, Shipbuilding, Tooling, Transportation, Offshore, Energy Storage, etc.)
- Nuclear Applications
- Virtual Simulation & Modeling
- NDT & Online Measurements
- Data Sampling, Analysis & AI in the Forging Industry
- Energy Saving, Decarbonization, Gas Fuels & Green Production
- Human Resources, Science Education & Technical Training in Forging
